SETTLE COLLEGE

An 11-18 School

Stage not age curriculum

'All pupils study a broad and balanced curriculum. The school continually reviews the curriculum in each subject. Careful consideration is given to what pupils will learn at each stage of their education. The knowledge and skills pupils need to understand are clearly set out. The curriculum increases in complexity and ambition over time. Opportunities to learn beyond the classroom are frequent. These strengthen pupil's knowledge and appreciation of each subject.'

Stage not age curriculum

“It is good to have the chance to take two options in Year 10 and then two options in Year 11, because it will help to reduce stress, especially with the amount of exams we have.”

Enterprise & Marketing

Enterprise & marketing gives you a general insight into what makes a business work. It shows you how businesses target customers, how they set prices, how they decide when a product needs updating and how these businesses are organised.

Enterprise & marketing is a practical subject too, as you get to design a product, test it out on the market, add your own brand and pitch your ideas to prospective buyers.

Students cannot select both computer science and iMedia.

Making your subject choices

Points to consider:

- Which subject choices are needed to support any future career plans?
- Which skills are required for the different subjects? Which subjects require skills that match your own?
- Are you selecting a range of subjects, which demonstrate that you have a range of skills?
- Which qualifications have the assessment format most suited to your strengths?
